SUPREME COURT OF BRITISH GUIANA.

LIMITED JURISDICTION.

THIS 17TH DAY OF MAY, 1912.

PRINCES NELSON AND STEPHEN HACKETT
versus
JUMNADASS.

In this case the plaintiffs ask for (1) an order restraining the sale at execution of west half of lot number 137, section A, lot number 113, section B, lot number 120, section C, and lot number 92, section D, with the buildings thereon, in the village of Friendship, East Coast; (2) a declaration that the advertisement of the sale at execution of the said property is wrongful and illegal and that the opposition thereto is just, legal and well-founded.

The plaintiffs' claim is too wide, as it is quite clear that the defendant sought to levy only on the undivided half of the aforesaid property not on the whole of W½ of lot No. 137 et seq.

The defendant, as execution-creditor, is seeking to levy on the property of one Elizabeth Daniel against whom he got judgment for $75 in the Magistrate's Court, Georgetown. Elizabeth Daniel has come forward as a witness for the defendant and she alleges that an undivided half of the aforesaid property belongs to her, she being the widow of one Joseph Daniel, deceased, through whom she claims. The plaintiffs claim the whole of the said property under the will of one Susan Williams, deceased.

The evidence does not support the claims either of the plaintiffs or Elizabeth Daniel. The will of Susan Williams and other evidence satisfy me that Susan Williams never owned more than a part of the property. The extent of that part will be defined later. Susan Williams in her will says, "I give and bequeath "the rents to be received between myself and Joseph "Daniel my other grandson who is co-proprietor with "me under his grandfather's will (sic) my said "daughter and grandson Stephen Hackett share and "share alike." The evidence shows that Susan Williams had no interest in any immovable property other than the property in question. Her will bears the date of the 15th of March, 1904, and she died on the 12th of April, 1905. As recently therefore as 1904 Susan Williams acknowledges in the most solemn way she can, namely, in her will, the co-proprietorship of Joseph Daniel in this property. The plaintiffs cannot own more than what was Susan Williams' share of the property. Susan Williams in her will speaks of a will under which Joseph Daniels was "co-proprietor" with her. This will is not forthcoming. The plaintiffs say that, as far as they know, such a will never existed. The evidence satisfies me that such a will did exist but as it is not here there is no evidence outside Susan Williams' will as to the extent of her share and Joseph Daniel's share in the property. The Court therefore can only conclude that each was the owner of one undivided half. As far therefore as the plaintiffs are concerned their opposition to the sale of what was Joseph Daniel's undivided half is not well-founded. But it is clear on the other hand that Elizabeth Daniel is not the sole owner of this undivided half. Her husband Joseph Daniel died intestate in 1905. The two were married in 1902 in community of goods. When he died intestate he left not only his widow but also four children surviving. These children were born before their parents' marriage but became legitimate "per subsequens matrimonium." They therefore take their legal share of their deceased father's property. Three of them are still minors.

If the Court authorised the sale as now advertised it would make itself a party to the infliction of a wrong on Joseph Daniel's children and the execution and sale would thus be an abuse of the process of the Court. The Court has an inherent power to prevent any such abuse and a duty is also cast upon it as upper guardian of the minors. The Court therefore orders that the execution and sale now opposed be stayed and withdrawn.

Under all the circumstances of the case the Court makes no order as to costs.

ORDINANCE NO. 12 OF 1912.

AN ORDINANCE to repeal the Books (Foreign Reprints) Importation Ordinance, 1851. A.D. 1912.

[1st June, 1912]

WHEREAS by an Act passed in the Session of Parliament holden in the first and second years of the reign of His present Majesty, entitled "An Act to amend and consolidate the law relating to Copyright" it was among other things enacted that copies made out of the United Kingdom of any work in which copyright subsists which if made in the United Kingdom would infringe copyright, and as to which the owner of the copyright gives notice in writing by himself or his agent to the Commissioners of Customs and Excise, that he is desirous that such copies should not be imported into the United Kingdom, shall not be so imported, and that the above provision with the necessary modifications shall apply to the importation into a British possession to which the said Act extends of copies of works made out of that possession;

And whereas the said Act extends to this Colony;

And whereas in order to give effect to the said Act in this Colony it is expedient to repeal an Ordinance passed in the year 1851 entitled "An Ordinance to authorize the importation into this Colony of books, being foreign reprints of books first composed, written, printed, or published in the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, and in which there is Copyright:"

Be it therefore enacted by the Governor of British Guiana, with the advice and consent of the Court of Policy thereof, as follows:—

Repeal of Ord. No. 3 of 1851.

1. The Books (Foreign Reprints) Importation Ordinance, 1851 is hereby repealed.

Amendment of Schedule I to Ord. No. 7 of 1884.

No. 14 of 1911.

2. The words "not being foreign reprints imported according to the provisions of the Books (Foreign Reprints) Importation Ordinance, 1851," in clause one of the Table of Prohibitions and Restrictions inwards in the First Schedule to the Customs Ordinance, 1884, as amended by section twenty-six of the Customs Ordinance, 1884, Amendment Ordinance, 1911, are hereby repealed.

WARNING.

BALATA-BLEEDERS FOR DUTCH GUIANA.

241. 31st May, 1912.

ALL persons are warned against leaving the Colony for employment in connection with the Balata Industry in Dutch Guiana without an agreement duly signed before a Magistrate of the Colony containing in full detail, the terms of employment, namely, length of service, wages, house accommodation, arrangements in time of sickness, food supply and return passages.

Persons who leave the Colony without such agreement and only on the specious and unsupported promises of unauthorized agents will very possibly experience difficulty in getting back again. British Consuls are unlikely to be able to act in behalf of stranded British subjects without the production of agreements.

At the present time no authority has been issued by this Government to any person under the provisions of the Emigration Regulation Ordinance, 1864, to act as an agent for the collection of labourers for work in Dutch Guiana, and persons who leave the colony without proper arrangements being made in their behalf do so at their own risk and peril.

242. 31st May, 1912.

REFERRING to Government Notice No. 174 of the 1st instant, His Excellency the Acting Governor has been pleased to grant to 1st Class Interpreter Mohamed Ibrahim an extension of leave of absence on full salary for six weeks from the 21st instant.

243. 31st May, 1912.

HIS Excellency the Acting Governor has been pleased to grant to Albert Tronson Ozzard, Esquire, M.R.C.S., Eng., L.S.A., Lond., Government Medical Officer, leave of absence on half salary from the 26th May to the 25th September next, inclusive.

244. 31st May, 1912.

HIS Excellency the Acting Governor has been pleased to appoint Albert Fry, Esquire, to be Chief Dispenser at the Public Hospital, Georgetown.

By Command,

J. HAMPDEN KING,
Acting Government Secretary.

SUPREME COURT OF BRITISH GUIANA.

APPELLATE JURISDICTION.

THIS 22ND DAY OF MAY, 1912.

WINTER.

This is an appeal from the decision of the Stipendiary Magistrate of the Georgetown Judicial District who, on a complaint brought by the respondent, convicted the appellant and ordered him to pay the minimum penalty of $48 for that he having entered into a contract with the Institute of Mines and Forests of British Guiana on the 15th day of January, 1912, at Georgetown to serve A. F. White, attorney of the Consolidated Rubber and Balata Estates, Limited, for nine months as a balata bleeder and prospector on their balata grants 1052/63, situate in the Rupuruni River, county of Essequibo and colony of British Guiana and being duly registered and having received a certificate of registration and having then and there received from the said Institute the sum of $10 as and by way of advance and having duly entered into such service afterwards, to wit, on 19th February, 1912, at Rupuruni Mouth store did unlawfully absent himself from such service.

The reasons of appeal are that the decision is altogether unwarranted by the evidence and erroneous in point of law.

The Magistrate finds the evidence for the appellant very unreliable and the Court therefore will discard the same in dealing with this appeal.

It appears from the evidence adduced in behalf of the respondent that the appellant was one of some 17 balata bleeders who left Georgetown on 23rd January, 1912, with Thomas Low as foreman, to work under contract on certain grants in the Rupuruni River. Having arrived at the Rupuruni store on 13th February, the men got 6 months' supply of provisions which, together with an extra supply to feed them until they got to the grants, was charged to them. According to the evidence of the foreman Low they had to discharge and pull the boat and do extra work in order to get as far as the store. On or about 19th February they left the store for the grants—some 2½ to 5 days distant—and within 3 hours encountered a sand-bank. It is at this sand-bank that the appellant is charged with unlawfully absenting himself from service. The only evidence as to what took place there is that of the foreman Low who says that they refused to go further, that he tried to encourage them to go and they refused, that he asked them to camp just below sand-bank while he went to a store about a half day from there to get a smaller craft, that they would not let him go and said he must take them back to the store and that against his own wishes he returned with them to the store where they remained 17 days, he says, "I told them to wait for rain; we only had a slight shower once."

It is stated in evidence that a missionary with two boats got beyond this sand-bank about a week later. This is not evidence as to the conditions prevailing on 19th February, nor are the circumstances and conditions under which he effected a crossing deposed to by an eye-witness. A refusal to camp out below the sand-bank and a request to be taken back to the store (3 hours distant) where appellant remained 17 days, waiting for rain, does not show at that time a desire on his part to unlawfully absent himself. It cannot be overlooked that the witnesses all speak to the exceptional drought which had caused the return of several expeditions. The respondent himself says "one gang has returned from Cuyuni and another from Essequebo during this drought and two gangs from Potaro Mouth." In the opinion of the Court there is no evidence on which the Magistrate was warranted in finding that appellant absented himself either lawfully or unlawfully on 19th February. The Magistrate from his reasons for decision, seems to have entertained some doubt on this point, for he says "even if their contract was not broken there (that is, at the sand-bank), it was, I think, certainly broken down at the store when they decided to leave, although they were practically assured that the Company would reimburse them for the stores they were consuming." As to this it is admitted by Counsel that under the contract appellant was entitled to free rations at that time, but he submits it was only a question of accounting and would subsequently have been set right. George Winchester, a captain in the Company's employ, says "on 4th March, (that is the day on which appellant left Rupuruni store for Potaro Mouth), Low asked them to stop, they said they would stop if he would give them rations free. Low refused but said he would bring it to their employer's notice." This shows that if the terms of the contract had been adhered to, the appellant would not have left the store when he did. It was the default of the Com- which brought about his absence and whether or not he knew that he was entitled to free rations, does not affect the question—he certainly claimed them—and but for the failure by the Company to supply them the cause of complaint could not have arisen. Under the circumstances he cannot be said to have unlawfully absented himself.

For these reasons, and without dealing with the other grounds of appeal the decision of the Magistrate must be reversed.

The appeal is allowed and the decision quashed with costs.

WARNING.

BALATA-BLEEDERS FOR DUTCH GUIANA AND ANY OTHER FOREIGN COUNTRY.

241. 31st May, 1912.

ALL persons are warned against leaving the Colony for employment in connection with the Balata Industry in Dutch Guiana, or any other foreign Country without an agreement duly signed before a Magistrate of the Colony containing in full detail, the terms of employment, namely, length of service, wages, house accommodation, arrangements in time of sickness, food supply and return passages.

Persons who leave the Colony without such agreement and only on the specious and unsupported promises of unauthorized agents will very possibly experience difficulty in getting back again. British Consuls are unlikely to be able to act in behalf of stranded British subjects without the production of agreements.

At the present time no authority has been issued by this Government to any person under the provisions of the Emigration Regulation Ordinance, 1864, to act as an agent for the collection of labourers for work in Dutch Guiana or any other foreign Country, and persons who leave the colony without proper arrangements being made in their behalf do so at their own risk and peril.

By Command,

J. HAMPDEN KING,
Acting Government Secretary.

Government Notice.

GOVERNMENT SECRETARY'S OFFICE,
GEORGETOWN, DEMERARA,
248. 7th June, 1912.

THE following Bill, which it is proposed to introduce into the Court of Policy, is hereby published for general information.

By Command,

J. HAMPDEN KING,
Acting Government Secretary.

THE PASSENGERS ORDINANCE, 1864, AMENDMENT BILL, 1912.

EXPLANATORY MEMORANDUM.

The object of this Bill is to enable local steamers when going between this Colony and Nickerie in Dutch Guiana to carry more than the number of passengers allowed to vessels which go beyond the territorial waters of the Colony. There is no more danger in going to Nickerie than in sailing along the coasts of the Colony, and as the prohibition hampers the steamers trading between the Colony and Nickerie, the Bill removes the prohibition and puts such vessels as to the number of passengers they can carry on the same footing as if they were coasting vessels. Vessels going to sea further than Nickerie must however conform to the existing law as to the number of passengers they can carry.

A BILL ENTITLED "AN ORDINANCE TO AMEND THE PASSENGERS ORDINANCE, 1864."

BE it enacted by the Governor of British Guiana, with the advice and consent of the Court of Policy thereof, as follows:—

Number of passengers to be carried on voyage to Nickerie. No. 4 of 1864. No. 2 of 1895

1. Notwithstanding anything contained in section six of the Passengers Ordinance, 1864, any passenger ship on a voyage between this Colony and any place not exceeding twelve miles outside the limits of the Colony may on such voyage carry the number of passengers which it might carry if it were a vessel employed in a coasting voyage, under any regulations made under the Shipping Casualties Prevention Ordinance, 1895, and if there are on board any such ship at or after the time of clearance a greater number of persons than the number aforesaid the master of such ship shall, on being convicted thereof be liable to a penalty of not less than twenty-four dollars and not exceeding ninety-six dollars for each person in excess of such number aforesaid.

Short title.

2. This Ordinance may be cited as the Passengers Ordinance, 1864, Amendment Ordinance, 1912, and shall be read as one with the Passengers Ordinance, 1864.

SUPREME COURT OF BRITISH GUIANA.

LIMITED JURISDICTION.

THIS 23RD DAY OF MAY, 1912.

HAY
THE ATTORNEY GENERAL.

In this case the plaintiff under the Petitions of Right Ordinance, 1904, claims from the Government of this colony damages for wrongful dismissal. By section 2 of the above Ordinance it is provided that claims against the general Government of the colony . . . . "may be brought . . . . . against the Attorney General as defendant," the Attorney General representing the Government for the purpose of the suit.

The facts of the case are as follows:—The plaintiff Stephen Reginald Hay, under the provisions of the Militia Ordinance, 1891, became a member of the Band of the British Guiana Militia Force. He joined the Band in 1897, and on November 12, 1907, he re-engaged for a further period of five years.

His engagement was made subject to the provisions of sections 73 and 76 of the Militia Ordinance, 1891. The Ordinance provides that on engagement the applicant must be brought before the Magistrate to answer certain questions, and furthermore that the sections of the Ordinance which affect his engagement and service shall be read over to him at the time.

One of the questions is "Are you willing to serve in the Militia Band under the provisions of the Militia Ordinance, 1891, for a period of five years."

The provisions of the Ordinance so far as they affect the applicant for service thereunder are thus made a term of the contract which is entered into.

It is clearly a contract of employment, and were it not that in such cases as this the Government is the employer, the ordinary law as to Master and Servant would apply.

Section 68 provides that the Band Master shall appoint subject to the approval of the Commandant, and section 76 provides that "every member of the Band other than the Band Master, shall be liable to serve for five years from the date of his appointment, but the Commandant may at any time dismiss any such member for misconduct or incompetence, or accept his resignation, or discharge him after giving him six months' notice of his intention to do so."

On the 27th day of June, 1911, the Commandant dismissed the plaintiff for alleged misconduct. If the ordinary law as between subject and subject applied, the only question which the Court need consider would be whether the misconduct was such as to justify dismissal without notice.

But it is pleaded by the defendant, inter alia, that "it was an implied term of the said service that the said service might be at any time, determined, irrespective of the provisions of section 76 of the said Ordinance, and that "Petition of Right does not lie against His Majesty's Attorney General for the alleged wrongful dismissal of a servant of the Crown and that the plaintiff was such servant."

To dismiss the latter plea first the Court holds that when once the fiat of the Governor "Let right be done" has been granted, as has been done in this case, the Court is bound under the provisions of section 5 of the Petition of Right Ordinance to deal with the claim, if prosecuted in the Court.

The plea that the said service of the plaintiff might be determined at any time irrespective of the provisions of section 76 of the Militia Ordinance raises some difficulty.

The law which is applicable thereto is found in the following cases:—In re Tufnell, L.R. Ch. D. vol. iii. 1876, p. 164; Thenton v. Smith, L.R. App. Cas., 1895, p. 229; Dunn v. the Queen, L.R., Q.B.D., 1896, vol. i., p. 116; Mitchell v. the Queen, L.R., Q.B.D., 1896, vol. i., p. 121; Gould v. Stuart, L.R. App. Cas. 1896, p. 575; Dunn v. Macdonald, L.J., N.S., 1897 vol. 66 pp. 421 and 423; also De Dohoe v. Reg. p. 422, id. and Young v. Adams L.R. App. Cas. 1898 p. 469.

From a review of the above cases it is quite clear and it is now settled law that servants of the Crown, civil as well as military, hold their offices only during the pleasure of the Crown, except in special cases where it is otherwise provided by law, see Dunn v. the Queen, ubi. supra, and Gould v. Stuart, ubi. supra. The question raised in the local case of Minty v. the Attorney General and decided on June 1st, 1910, whether a member of the Band is a civil or military servant, need not be considered here. The law as to dismissal applies equally to both classes of servants of the Crown. There can be no doubt that the plaintiff as a member of the Band of the British

Digitized by Google

Guiana Militia Force, is a servant of the Crown, and, whether he is a military or civil servant does not matter.

Unless therefore this is a "special case where it is otherwise provided by law," there can be no wrongful dismissal, as the Crown can dismiss public servants at pleasure and without any notice.

The act of the Commandant in dismissing the plaintiff was the act of a servant or agent of the Crown. If the power of the Crown is not limited so far as the acts of its agent the Commandant are concerned by section 76 of the Militia Ordinance then the plaintiff has no case.

The Court holds however that the power is limited. The section lays down the circumstances under which the Commandant may dismiss. If it had been the intention of the Legislature that the Commandant should as agent or servant of the Crown possess the power to dismiss at pleasure, the section so far as it deals with dismissal need not have been incorporated in the Ordinance. By expressing particularly how the Commandant may dismiss, the section excludes the general powers of the Crown so far as the Commandant is concerned. One of the methods of discharge is by giving six months' notice of his intention to do so. Clearly the Commandant cannot discharge at pleasure even though he be an agent or servant of the Crown. This is an exception provided for by law, viz., by Ordinance, which takes this case out of the general law as to dismissal of servants of the Crown.

So far then this plea of the defence fails. But the Solicitor General further argued that the act of the Commandant was the act of the Governor, and, that being so, section 144 of the Militia Ordinance applies.

That section says "that nothing in this Ordinance shall be construed to limit in any manner the power of the Governor to dismiss any member of the Force whom he may consider unfit to be a member of the same."

The Court however holds that the act of the Commandant is not the act of the Governor. It is the act of the Government. The words "the Governor" in section 144 mean "the Officer for the time being administering the Government of this Colony." See the Interpretation Ordinance, 1891, section 3.

As used in section 144 the words mean the Governor acting in his official capacity in propriâ personâ. In this case there is no evidence to show that the Governor was even consulted. The section requires that the Governor should "consider." The defence cannot take shelter behind section 144. The only defence left is that the misconduct of the plaintiff justified his dismissal. On the evidence of (1) the plaintiff himself, (2) the Commandant and (3) the entry in the Regimental Defaulters' Book, it is quite clear that the Commandant, exercising his powers under section 76 of the Militia Ordinance, dismissed the plaintiff for misconduct.

So far as is necessary for this case the instances of misconduct are two in number: (1) disobedience in writing to a member of the Combined Court a complaint about the treatment of members of the Band by the Band Master, (2) refusal to obey an order of the Adjutant when ordered to state in whose handwriting a certain letter was.

The evidence quite satisfies me that the plaintiff at least dictated and sent the letter addressed to E. G. Woolford, a member of the Combined Court. The plaintiff now admits that it is in his wife's hand-writing. No signature appears on the letter. Apparently the part of the paper on which it was written has been cut off. This act of the plaintiff was in disobedience of a general order communicated orally to the members of the Band by the Commandant some time previously. I accept the evidence of the Commandant on that point. The general order was, in my opinion, reasonable and necessary for the purposes of proper discipline. The disobedience by the plaintiff of the order, under the circumstances, therefore, amounts to misconduct.

As regards the refusal of the plaintiff to obey the order of the Adjutant to state in whose handwriting the letter written to the Commandant was, the question arises whether the order was lawful and reasonable. There is certainly nothing unlawful about the order. The Adjutant was at the time trying to get to know who was the author or sender of the letter to a member of the Combined Court. He observed, what is now admitted, that the handwriting in the bodies of that letter and the letter to the Commandant was the same. If he knew the handwriting of the later letter, that knowledge could help him in the discovery of the writer of the former. Both letters complain about the conduct of the Band Master and show that at the time there was a spirit of at least dissatisfaction rife among some of the members of the Band. It was the Adjutant's duty to made full inquiry into the matter and probe the dissatisfaction to the bottom. Hence the question which was put to the plaintiff, which question the plaintiff refused to answer though definitely ordered to do so. The order was reasonable and the refusal to obey, coupled with the attitude which the plaintiff adopted at the time as disclosed by his own evidence, amounted to gross insubordination.

For these acts of misconduct the plaintiff was dismissed and in the opinion of the Court justifiably dismissed.

There will be judgment for the defendant with costs.

LICORICE
GASKIN.

In this case the plaintiff (appellant) sued the defendant in the Court below for damages for assault to his wife. The learned Magistrate held that the husband and the wife could both sue and that as the wife had not sued he could not award damages in respect to her personal injuries.

Roman-Dutch law applies to this case. The plaintiff and his wife are married in community of goods. That being the case, the husband must sue, she being in the position of a minor. It is laid down by Van der Keesel, 95, and other authorities that a married woman, as a general rule, cannot institute or defend an action in her own name. The case of Miehler vs. Saunders, 11 Juta, p. 26, shows that this case comes within the general rule and that the husband is the proper person to sue for the damages done to his wife. These damages include the personal injuries or the pain and suffering due to the assault as well as the special damages in the way of medical expenses, &c. Counsel for the respondent admits that the above is the law as affecting this case.

The only question remaining is one of procedure, viz., whether this Court should deal with the case finally under the provisions contained in section 31 of Ordinance 13 of 1893, or refer it back to the Magistrate for the purpose of assessing damages. As the demeanour of the plaintiff's wife and the defendant, respectively, in the witness box may shed some light on the question as to what amount of damages should be awarded for personal injuries, I refer the case back to the Magistrate to assess further what sum, if any, is due to the plaintiff for damages for the personal injuries which his wife suffered and so to determine the case.

The appellant will have the costs of the appeal.

THIS 4TH DAY OF JUNE, 1912.

ALLEN AND DELVIN, Appellants.
versus
MADHOO, Respondent.

The appellants appeal from a conviction by the Stipendiary Magistrate of the South Essequebo Judicial District.

The respondent does not appear.

The complaint as laid was that they did release certain strays, to wit, two cows, while such strays were on the way to a pound and before they were discharged in due course of law, and which strays had been impounded under the authority of an Ordinance of this colony relating to Pounds, contrary to section 159 (1), Ordinance 17 of 1893.

The reasons of appeal are that the decision is erroneous in point of law and that the Magistrate's Court exceeded its jurisdiction.

The section under which the complaint is brought consists of two sub-sections, and in describing the offence, certain words are imported from sub-section (2) which might render it difficult to say under which sub-section the charge is brought, but for the words "contrary to section 159 (1), Ordinance 17 of 1893" appearing therein. The use of these words limits the charge to the offence created by this sub-section. The Magistrate, therefore, was correct in holding that there was no duplicity in this respect and it was unnecessary for him to accede to the application of the Solicitor for the respondent to amend the complaint by inserting before the word "impounded" the words "taken for the purpose of being," although he did it as he says only "to make charge clear."

It remains to be considered whether a stray can be held to be "on the way to the Pound" as set out in sub-section (1) when as in the present case it was released from the land where it had been taken before it had left for the Pound. Section 4 of the Ordinance (1 of 1866) requires that where the owner of the land does not himself take the stray to the Pound, he may send it by some one authorized by him in writing, while section 11 permits him to detain the stray three hours before sending it and under certain circumstances for a longer period, and it imposes a penalty on him for its detention after that period. In the present case the evidence shows that respondent was about to write the necessary authorization when the appellants came on the land and released the strays. Looking to the provisions of the Pound Ordinance, I think it must be held that a stray is legally on its way to the Pound from the time it is taken with the intention of sending it there.

The appeal is dismissed, but, as there is no appearance of respondent, without costs.

SUPREME COURT OF BRITISH GUIANA.

LIMITED JURISDICTION.

THIS 1ST DAY OF JUNE, 1912.

KING
ROHLEHR.

The plaintiff claims from the defendant $250 for slander, the alleged defamatory words having, it is said, been spoken of the plaintiff in the way of his trade, that of a dispenser and, as such, actionable per se, and without proof of special damage.

The words complained of were spoken at a public meeting held at Hopetown which the defendant was addressing. In the course of his remarks, he challenged any of his hearers to deny certain statements he made, and the plaintiff having denied them, an altercation ensued in the course of which defendant is alleged to have used the words set out in the claim. The plaintiff's evidence does not entirely substantiate this but it is not necessary that it should in its entirety. It is shown that the defendant called the plaintiff a sycophant, scum of the earth, a loafer, a hanger-on, a parasite. He further said plaintiff was not fit, if he were fit he would have qualified as a doctor the same as he (defendant) had done.

Thompson swears that Rohlehr said: "There is a "man here. He is a dispenser. He came from "wealthy people on the Corentyne Coast. He is here "hanging on the people, begging his bread. He had "fair chances as I. Why did he not qualify himself "as I instead of hanging on the people—a parasite— "a sycophant—a scum of the earth. I know very bad "things about you, King, and I can say bad things "about you."

Johnson's evidence is in effect the same and in cross-examination he swears Rohlehr said "You are "not fit, if you were fit, you would have qualified as "a doctor as I have done, instead of remaining in the "village as a hanger-on and loafer."

Bowman's evidence does not help the plaintiff's case. In his evidence-in-chief all he says he remembers is that Rohlehr said: "Why did you not qualify "as a doctor same as I am." In cross-examination he says he further remembers Rohlehr saying he knew a lot of bad things about King.

Words, which are defamatory and are spoken of anyone in the way of his trade are actionable without proof that that individual's reputation has been impaired. Such impairment is presumed. Special damage, if alleged, can also be shown in aggravation of damages, but it is not necessary that special damage should be shown. In the present case special damage has not been shown nor, in fact, has it been alleged. The case therefore rests itself on the question whether the spoken words, which are undoubtedly defamatory, were spoken of the plaintiff in the way of his trade, and, being so, are actionable per se.

But words spoken to the disparagement of a trader will not ipso facto be actionable per se. Such words to be actionable on this ground must "touch" the plaintiff in his trade, i.e., they must be shown to have been spoken of the plaintiff in relation thereto, and such as would prejudice him therein. They must impeach his skill or knowledge or attack his conduct therein.

The words "sycophant," "hanger on," "scum of the earth," "parasite," "loafer," are, in the opinion of the Court, words which do not come within this category. As the witness Bowman says "King is a "decent man, although the doctor says he is a "sycophant and scum of the earth, and he is a good "dispenser also."

The only words which, in the opinion of the Court might, prima facie, be thought to reflect on the plaintiff in the way of his trade are those relating to his not being "fit" which are before set out, but the Court, agreeing with the submission for the defence, considers they must be construed as a whole with the preceding expressions, and that they amount to no more than disgust or reproach at plaintiff's lack of ambition. "You are not fit, if "you were fit, you would have qualified as as a doctor "same as I have done, instead of remaining in the "village as a hanger-on and loafer" does not inpute any want of knowledge or skill to the plaintiff in his trade as a dispenser, nor do the words attack his conduct as such.

In the opinion of the Court, the words are vulgar abuse, and are not actionable per se. No special damage having been alleged or proved, there will be judgment for the defendant with costs.

J. K. DARRELL HILL, Actg. J.

SUPREME COURT OF BRITISH GUIANA.

THIS 11TH DAY OF JUNE, 1912.

In re Petition of VICTORINA CHAVES for an Order that her marriage to Frank Vieira may be declared proper and solemnized forthwith.

The Petition is brought under the Marriage Ordinance of 1901 (section 31) which provides that in any case where a parent's consent is necessary and such consent is withheld it shall be lawful for any person desirous of marriage to apply by petition to the Chief Justice who is thereby empowered to proceed upon such petition in a summary way and in case the marriage proposed shall upon examination appear to him to be proper he shall judicially declare by his order in writing that such marriage is proper and may be solemnized forthwith.

In the present case the parties appear to have met for the first time in October or November, 1911, when he at once proposed marriage to petitioner which was followed by his writing on 14th February, to her father asking for his consent. This letter was returned and endorsed to the effect that his daughter was not to be married just yet as she was too young. The father having remained obdurate hence the present petition.

The petitioner who is 17 years of age is the only child of her parents who are in comfortable circumstances—the father being the owner of property valued at over $13,000—while the proposed husband, who is 28, has two shops from which it is stated he derives an income of about $800 per annum. This is denied by the petitioner's father who states, however, that he does not object on that ground but solely on account of the character the proposed husband bears. Under the circumstances it is only necessary to deal with the evidence so far as it relates to this matter. In fact that the marriage in other respects might be regarded as suitable is borne out by the evidence adduced.

As to character, the father says that this renders him unfit to marry his daughter. It is admitted by Vieira himself that he had been friends with another young woman for years and that it was on account of this friendship his advances were objected to by the father of another young person of his own nationality about two years ago. He further says that in January last the petitioner spoke to him of this intimacy when he told her "now it will be a different life." He admits that at that time he continued to visit this person and did so to 22nd March. On his own shewing he continued an improper connection after he had become engaged to petitioner. The young woman in question gave evidence and speaks to Vieira and herself having known each other for 4 years (since she was 17) and that they were engaged to be married, that on 17th October last she at his request went to his house and that they lived there as man and wife until 10th November when he rented a separate house for her and continued to live with her—his last visit being on "Saturday night last," (25th May.) Vieira denies promise of marriage but admits the fact that they cohabited as spoken to by her from 17th October. He denies that he visited her on 25th May but the next door neighbour speaks to seeing him there early in April, and this witness says that Vieira used to come out early and go in late at night. The granting or withholding the order for the marriage is entirely in the discretion of the Chief Justice and although he should not hesitate to grant it in a case where a parent unreasonably or improperly withholds consent it is incumbent on him to withhold it when there is reasonable ground for doing so.

The intimacy between the proposed husband and the young woman referred to which existed previously to, and has continued to exist during his engagement to the petitioner, justifies the action of her father in withholding his consent and appears to this Court reasonable ground for refusing the order as prayed.

The prayer of the Petition is refused.

SMART-DALGLEISH & CO., LTD.

The plaintiff, a qualified Chemist and Druggist, claims from the defendant company $2,000 as damages, $500 of which is claimed as special and $1,500 as general damages. The statement of claim alleges an agreement in writing dated 29th April, 1911, between plaintiff and defendant whereby in consideration of $200 paid by plaintiff, the defendant agreed to sell to him a drug business with its stock-in-trade, fittings, fixtures and furniture belonging to defendant and carried on at lot 11, Lombard Street, for the sum of $1,401.56 and also agreed to allowing the plaintiff exercising the option of purchase of the said drug business within three years from the date of the agreement.

Paragraph 4 of the statement of claim alleges that certain terms and conditions were contained in the said agreement, inter alia:—

(a.) That the defendant company should employ the plaintiff as manager of the said drug business at a salary of $50 per month as long as he shall retain the option of purchase as aforesaid.

(b.) That the defendant company shall keep the said drug business stocked with a capital of at least $1,000 and shall be entitled to charge for goods supplied to the said business their landed cost plus 10 per cent. on the said landed cost.

(c.) That the defendant company shall render to the plaintiff a detailed account of all goods so supplied as aforesaid shewing the landed cost of same and charges made thereon and that the plaintiff should be allowed to ascertain such landed cost by inspection of the invoices in the possession of the defendant company.

(d.) That stock of the said business shall be taken at least once every three months by the defendant company in which said stock shall be included the fittings and fixtures of the said business at the same figure as they have been valued at by the defendant company and the plaintiff for the purpose of the said agreement.

Paragraph 5 alleges that plaintiff has carried out his part of the agreement.

Paragraph 6 alleges a wrongful and forcible taking of possession of the business, stock-in-trade, fittings, fixtures and furniture and ejectment of the plaintiff by the defendant company and a wrongful dismissal of the plaintiff.

Paragraph 7 alleges that on 18th March, 1912, the defendant company refused to allow plaintiff to inspect the invoices in order to ascertain the landed cost of goods supplied to the business.

Paragraph 8 alleges breaches on the part of defendant company of the agreement as set out in paragraph 4 (b), (c) and (d.

Paragraph 9 alleges that by breach of the said agreement plaintiff has suffered loss, and damage, and has lost his right of option of purchase, and been deprived of earning his salary as Manager, and has lost the sum of $200 paid by him as part purchase money of the business, and has been otherwise damnified, and claims damages as set out before.

In the statement of defence in paragraph 2 the defendants deny they agreed to sell the business to plaintiff. They admit an option to purchase, but not for $1,401.56. They do not admit that they agreed to plaintiff exercising such option within three years from date of the agreement. They say that by the terms of the agreement the option was determinable if the plaintiff should commit a breach of any of the terms or conditions to be observed by him under the agreement, and that he broke the terms and conditions therein.

Paragraph 3 admits the employment of plaintiff as manager, at $50 per month so long as he should retain the option of purchase contained in the agreement, but not the option described in the statement of claim.

Paragraph 4 admits paragraphs 4 (b), (c) and (d) of the statement of claim.

Paragraph 5 denies the performance by the plaintiff of the terms and conditions of the agreement.

Paragraph 6 admits that the defendants took possession of the business and dismissed the plaintiff from his employment on 19th March, 1912. They deny taking possession forcibly, or dismissing plaintiff forcibly. They deny ejecting plaintiff forcibly or at all. They allege reasonable cause for taking possession, and dismissing plaintiff.

Paragraph 7 denies that the defendants on 18th March, 1912, or at any other time refused to allow plaintiff to inspect the invoices.

Paragraph 8 alleges that the defendants always rendered with the goods, or immediately afterwards, detailed accounts of the goods supplied to the business showing the landed cost and charges. Plaintiff never demanded further or other accounts, and no accounts demanded by the plaintiff were ever refused to him. The business was always kept stocked with a capital exceeding $1,000. Stock was taken every three months from date of agreement; and in the manner prescribed except that in December, 1911, plaintiff refused to assist in the stock-taking.

Paragraph 9 alleges that it was a term of the agreement that plaintiff should every day pay over all moneys received by him on behalf of the business and that wilful refusal to comply with this condition should render him liable to instant dismissal.

Paragraph 10 alleges it was a term of the agreement that plaintiff might, whilst employed by the defendants, allow credit to customers approved by the defendants provided the credits did not at any time exceed $50 in the aggregate and that they should be entered in proper form and charged to the respective debtors in a book to be kept for the purpose.

Paragraph 11 alleges a right in the defendants under the agreement to dismiss plaintiff from their employment without notice in certain cases therein mentioned and that thereupon the said agreement should be determined. The cases include the following:—

(a.) If at any time there should appear from the stock-taking to be a loss of $200 or more as from the commencement of the agreement on the working of the business and if the said $200 or more were not made good by the plaintiff in cash within 15 days from the ascertaining of the loss.

(b.) If the plaintiff should commit a breach of any of the terms or conditions to be observed by him under the agreement.

(c.) If the plaintiff should so conduct himself as to render himself liable under the laws of the colony to instant dismissal. Provided, however, that in the event of a dismissal under this clause the purchaser should have the right to exercise his option within 15 days after such dismissal.

Paragraph 12 alleges, between 1st October, 1911, and 19th March, 1912, the receipt by plaintiff of moneys for and on behalf of the business and the retention by him of such moneys.

Paragraph 13 alleges that between the same dates plaintiff gave credit to customers not approved of by the defendants.

Paragraph 14 alleges that between the same dates plaintiff gave credit to an amount largely exceeding in the aggregate at one time the sum of $50.

Paragraph 15 sets forth an alternative to paragraph 14. It alleges that if the plaintiff did not give credit exceeding in the aggregate the sum of $50 the plaintiff between the same dates removed from the business premises and sold or otherwise disposed of large quantities of the defendant's goods without charging them to the respective debtors in accordance with the agreement as stated in paragraph 10 hereof and without paying or accounting to the defendants for the proceeds of such goods.

Paragraph 16 alleges that when stock was taken in December, 1911, the plaintiff verbally to the defendant's Secretary, L. M. Roach, refused to produce to the defendants the book of customers' accounts which he agreed to keep as stated in paragraph 10 of the defence and he also refused to produce it in March, 1912, when required verbally by L. M. Roach, the Secretary.

Paragraph 18 alleges that on the stock-taking in March, 1912, there appeared a loss of $355.43 on the working of the business from October, 1911, to March, 1912. From the commencement of the agreement to September, 1911, a profit was made on the working of $124.30. The net loss on the working from the commencement to March, 1912, was a sum exceeding $200; namely, the sum of $231.13.

Paragraph 19 alleges that this loss was ascertained on 19th March, 1912, and on 20th March, 1912, the defendants gave notice in writing to the plaintiff of the said loss and thereby called upon the plaintiff to make good the same in cash if he should desire to do so in accordance with the provisions of paragraph 11 (a.) Plaintiff has not paid the said loss or any part thereof.

Paragraph 20 alleges misconduct on part of plaintiff in manner alleged in paragraphs 12, 13, 14, 15 and 16, and states that the defendants discharged the plaintiff from their service, which is the breach alleged by the plaintiff.

Paragraph 21 sets out a counter-claim:

(a.) An account of all goods removed, sold or otherwise disposed of by the plaintiff during his employment by the defendants otherwise than for cash.

(b.) An account of all moneys received by the plaintiff for and on behalf of the defendants during his employment.

(c.) An account of all moneys found to have been so received by the plaintiff.

The reply is in effect a total denial of all the allegations set forth in the defence.

The agreement is in evidence, and dealing firstly with the averments set forth in the statement of claim as to laches on the part of the defendants to carry out the terms of the agreement, and the evidence thereon, the Court finds that it has not been shown that the defendant Company failed to keep the stock at $1,000 as required by the agreement. On the contrary, it is clear that the stock prices, even if it has to be conceded that they were the landed cost prices, have under the agreement to be further increased by a charge of 10%, which would have the effect of practically fixing the stock at $1,000 at each stock-taking. The plaintiff sought to show that while he was charged with goods at certain prices, when stock was taken those, or similar, goods were priced at lower rates and he brought forward a great number of items shewing that the cost as charged when supplied was more than priced at the stock-taking but the manager of the company, on the other hand, swore that the prices as fixed at the stock-taking were the landed cost prices of the articles as at the time of stock-taking and might be increased or decreased by the then price, as against the price charged when supplied. It is impossible for the Court, therefore, in the absence of any analysis of the entire stock and prices, to say with any degree of certainty whether the stock was actually priced at the stock-takings at the sum required by the agreement but it would seem on the whole that it probably was so priced; at any rate plaintiff has not shown it was not so priced.

With regard to paragraph 6 of the claim it is admitted by the defendants that on the 19th March, 1912, they took possession of the business and dismissed the plaintiff. They allege (Para. 6 of defence) they had just and reasonable cause. As to the reason why they took possession of and dismissed the plaintiff, the letters of 19th and 20th March, 1912, from the secretary of the defendant company to the plaintiff are instructive, as well as the conversation which took place when the Secretary and Manager and Mr. Hirschfeld went to the store. The sole cause at that time of the closing down of the business was, the Court has no doubt, the alleged loss on the working up to March, 1912. That loss has been shown not to exist. The 10% increase on the stock prices had not been charged, as it undoubtedly should have been, under the agreement. No allowance had been made for the book debts due to the business at that date —now admitted to be $40 or thereabouts by the defendants, and in addition there was this unknown quantity of possible increase of the stock prices by ascertaining the landed cost prices. But that even if no allowance can be, or ought to be, made for the last mentioned item, the two first mentioned were quite sufficient to reduce the loss below $200, the minimum amount mentioned in the agreement under paragraph 11 (a), as giving the Company the right to dismiss the plaintiff in the event of his not making good the loss between 15 days. The letter of 20th March, 1912, gives the plaintiff the opportunity of making good something which he had never lost.

The defendants admit in their evidence they went to the shop, counted the cash, and demanded the keys, and on plaintiff refusing to give up his keys, they removed the locks and replaced them with others, the keys of which they retained.

The Court cannot find on the evidence there was any refusal on the part of the defendant to allow the inspection of the invoices as alleged in paragraph 7 of the claim nor can it find that the detailed account of the goods supplied to the business showing the landed cost of the same (par. 8 of claim) has not been supplied. With each supply Bills of Parcels were supplied which are sworn to by the defendants to have shown the landed cost of the articles and charges thereon. Plaintiff did dispute certain items and obtained rectification, but he was apparently satisfied to look upon them as the detailed account required by the agreement (par. 5 (b)) as no doubt they were intended to be. As to the concluding portion of paragraph 8 of the claim, it is impossible to say whether the stock was taken in the manner prescribed by the agreement (par. 6) in view of the difficulty of ascertaining whether the prices were at landed cost or not, but in so far as the addition of 10% to the prices is concerned, it is evident and admitted that at March, 1912, that charge was certainly omitted.

Dealing now with the defence, there can be no doubt that the original ground for treating the contract was the alleged breach on the part of the plaintiff of the obligation set out in paragraph 11 (a) of the agreement, having reference to a loss of over $200 at the stock-taking in March, 1912. The defendants admit now that they erred in so alleging, and it is quite evident that there was no loss exceeding $200 at that date.

Nor can the Court find any evidence in support of the allegations in paragraphs 12, 13, 14 and 15, of the defence, in two of which certainly dishonesty is attributed to the plaintiff.

In paragraph 16 of the defence the plaintiff is alleged to have refused to give up the customers, account book to Mr. Roach, the Secretary, in December, 1911, and again in March, 1912. Mr. Roach says that indecorous conduct was the cause of dismissal, and not the alleged refusal to give up the book. Such so-called indecorous conduct as there was and having regard more especially to its origin in the action of the defendants towards the plaintiff, cannot be held to be such as to warrant instant dismissal.

And with regard to the alleged refusal to give up the book, the Court is unable to find that at either of the dates mentioned there was a refusal to so give up. At most there may have been some undesirable delay in December, 1911, but that this delay was of injury to the defendants does not appear. Mr. Roach says the result of the stock-taking was unsatisfactory, and certainly, in March, 1912, the Court cannot find a refusal at all to deliver up the book. Even if there was delay in producing the book in December, 1911, it cannot now be advanced as a justification for instant dismissal. (see Blackburn, J. in Phillips v. Foxall, L.R., 7, Q.B. at 681.)

In point of fact there does not appear to the Court to have been any justification on the part of the defendants for acting in the manner they did to the plaintiff and he is entitled to damages.

He is entitled to obtain from the defendants the sum of money paid by him as on account of the purchase money, i.e., the sum of $200, and he is also entitled to something for wrongful dismissal or for breach of contract in not allowing him to remain in his position as manager. It has been suggested that vindictive damages or as it is called, "smart money," should be allowed but on the authority of Addis v. Gramophone Co., L.R., Ap. Cases, H.L., 1909, p. 488, the damages for dismissal cannot include compensation for the manner of his dismissal or for the loss he may sustain from the fact that the dismissal of itself makes it more difficult for him to obtain fresh employment. Under the first paragraph of the agreement, it is agreed that the company shall employ the purchaser as manager of the said business at a salary of $50 per month as long as he shall retain the option of purchase hereinafter contained and under paragraph 10 of the agreement the plaintiff had the right of exercising the option of purchase at any time within three years from 29th April, 1911. He lost that option of purchase if certain things happened, none of which had happened, and therefore he, at this moment, still retains the option of purchase under an agreement wrongfully broken by defendants but which this judgment now cancels. By the authority of Addis v. Gramophone Co., before referred to, he would therefore appear to be entitled to, say, three months' salary.

But he is also entitled to something for breach of a contract under which he had option rights of purchase and which he has been deprived of, and the Court assesses these at $200. There will therefore be judgment for the plaintiff for $550 and costs and also for plaintiff on the counter-claim.

GENERAL JURISDICTION.

THIS 14TH DAY OF JUNE, 1912.

HOLDER
versus
HOLDER.

The plaintiff seeks to obtain a divorce on the ground of her husband's adultery.

The defendant does not appear and the certificate of the Registrar to this effect is laid over.

The evidence establishes that both parties are domiciled in this Colony and that they were married at the Brickdam Cathedral, Georgetown, on 6th March, 1905.

The Court is of opinion that the commission of adultery by the defendant with Irene Williams and Mamma Canterbury is proved, and no facts appearing on the evidence to disentitle the plaintiff to the relief she seeks it grants the divorce sought with costs.

Board of Agriculture Notice.

GEORGETOWN, DEMERARA,
20th June, 1912.

THE following Memorandum by the Economic Biologist, Department of Science and Agriculture, on certain insect pests of Rice, Rubber and Cassava is hereby published for general information.

By Order,

E. S. CHRISTIANI,
Secretary to the Board.

The attention of cultivators of Rice, Rubber and Cassava is drawn to the following insect pests which at present are extremely prevalent in the colony and threaten the above crops.

1. The Cassava Hawk Moth (Dilophonota ello.)
2. The Grass Moth (Remigia repanda.)

THE CASSAVA HAWK MOTH.—The larva or 'worm' of this Sphinx Moth feeds on the following economic plants—Cassava, Para rubber, Sapium Jenmani, also a number of weeds belonging to the family Euphorbiacae, chiefly that commonly known as 'Milk Weed.'

The eggs are laid separately on the upper surface of the leaves and may, with a little practice be easily detected. They are green in colour, globular and about $\frac{1}{16}$ of an inch in diameter.

The worm in its later stages of development attains a length of some 3 inches and varies very considerably in colour, some being bright green, some distinctly red, and others again a dull brown.

When full fed (which takes about 16 days) the worm descends to the ground and changes into a chrysalis beneath a rough cocoon composed of dead leaves, vegetable matter, etc., drawn together with coarse silken threads. The chrysalis is chestnut brown in colour with darker markings.

The Moth itself is a light grey-brown in colour, the underwings being a bright red-gold with dark edging.

Remedial Measures.—Spraying the plants with Lead Arsenate at the rate of 4 lbs. Lead Arsenate to 50 gallons of water is effective as it quickly poisons the worms. Paris Green may be lightly dusted on the leaves, when slightly damp so as to ensure its adherence. It also is an effective poison. Failing these methods the worms should be handpicked from the leaves as they are easily seen. Search may also be made for the eggs and pupae. These measures should be carried out at once to prevent further damage to the cultivations.

THE GRASS MOTH.—The larva of this moth attacks sugar-cane blades, rice, paragrass and the majority of the commonly occurring grasses.

The eggs are very small (considerably less than $\frac{1}{16}$ of an inch in diameter), of a green colour, and laid on the blades of the grasses.

The worms may easily be recognised by their smooth hairless appearance and habit of forming a loop in their bodies when walking. The upper surface of the body is almost black with faint longitudinal white lines and along the sides are a number of very fine stripes of brown and yellow. The head is striped with fines lines of black and yellow. The under-surface of the body is dark coloured. It measures just over $1\frac{1}{2}$ inches in length when fully grown.

When fully fed the worm moves to some plant near by and forms a cocoon in one of the leaves by drawing together the edges with fine silken threads, it then turns into a chrysalis. At times they will form a cocoon on the plant they are feeding on.

The chrysalis is dark brown in colour and covered with a kind of grey powder which may easily be rubbed off.

The moth is an inconspicuous light grey brown in colour with two distinct transverse dark lines across the upper wings.

Remedial Measures.—When attacking cane blades these may be sprayed with Lead Arsenate or treated with Paris Green in the manner previously described.

A careful watch should be maintained for the appearance of this pest on rice, for when once a foothold has been established it will speedily destroy the entire crop.

Lead Arsenate cannot be applied to this crop with any effect as it will not adhere to the blades, and Paris Green scorches so as to make its use entirely out of the question.

Handpicking is the best method of dealing with them, also as their cocoons are easily seen they should be looked for and destroyed. Traplights placed low on the ground should account for a number of the adults.

G. E. BODKIN,
Government Economic Biologist.
